FRIDAY, AUG. 20, 1886.

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney still expects to pay us a visit shortly.The death of Samuel J. Tilden makes the fourth prominent Democrat who has passed away within the last few months. Death and the Republican party would seem to be in league against the Democrats.The Regina scribe and the Mc-Leod scribe are calling one another naughty names all on account of the late Chief Poundmaker, and if they do not soon stop we will expect the great chief to come back and scalp the both of them.Judge Gray, before whom the Chicago Anarchists are being tried, has decided that "when orators counsel bloodshed to crowds of men who may choose their own time, place and victims, they must be held responsible." Thus freedom of speech is not denied, but when as a result of free speech laws are set at defiance, the orator will be held responsible.Walpole Roland, C.E., in a letter to the Emigrant, on the Saskatchewan country, says of the Prince Albert settlement: "But taken as a community there is perhaps no more prosperous, hospitable or loyal settlement in the Great Saskatchewan country, and if the general expression of satisfaction with the present representative government can be taken for anything there is trouble in store for the idle political cranks who take occasion to excite the ignorant halfbreed. For the agitator must fail to impress his views upon the majority of numerous intelligent French and other halfbreeds of the Saskatchewan—for here as elsewhere ignorance, idleness and disaffection go hand in hand." Thanks.

A PLEA FOR PRINCIPLES.

What with the intruding of race and religious cries upon the political arena, to the exclusion of principles, we would seem to be fast drifting into political chaos. We had fondly believed that the day had arrived, or was fast approaching, when we would all be able to meet on a common footing as Canadians—that we had arrived at that stage in our national career when, of its possessing and enjoying the fullest liberty consistent with good government, we would be able to discuss political principles, and cast our votes in support of our principles, uninfluenced by considerations arising from race, creed, or office. But it would seem that we were mistaken; that the efforts of the great statesmen of both parties to not only unite the various provinces under one flag, but to unite all our citizens as one family, make them feel that they have a common interest in each other's affairs, have been unavailing; that we are as far asunder as ever, and that the wedge of division is being driven hard and fast into the national structure. Both parties seem to measure to blame for it, and the Liberal party under the leadership of Messrs.
Blake, Laurier, and Edger, is doing the honor of carrying the other side of outstripping them in a record of political perfidy. Mr. Blake, it is true, declined, in his last speech, to make a political proposition out of the Regina scaffold, but whether was not honest in his declaration then, or he did not know what depths political necessities might drive him in the near future. But Mr. Blake was honest in his declaration then, it is his duty since the Chamby election to either sever his connection with the Liberal party or publicly repudiate the Rielites. He must do one or the other, or stand convicted of an attempt to deceive the people, because the late election in Chamby would seem to set at rest all doubts as to whether the Liberal party are in sympathy with the Rielites or not, if the enthusiastic way in which they received the news of the defeat of the government candidate is at all suggestive of their leaning. "Down with the hangers," and "Let us avenge the national honor," were the cries of the Rielites, led by Mr.
Laurier, and when victory crowned their efforts, Mr. Blake's lieutenant, J. D. Edger, telegraphed on behalf of the Liberals of Toronto, of whom Mr. Blake is one, "The Liberals of Toronto congratulate you on your splendid victory. Welcome to our colleague." Could more convincing evidence be wanting to show the complicity of the Liberal party in this unpatriotic and disreputable Rielite movement; this holding up to the gaze of the public as a martyr by the Liberal party of the man for whose blood they cried, and accused the government of intending to let go unpunished. The history of the Liberal party is replete with the most anousing party antics, but this last somersault is more than comical, it is criminal.The object of government, whether by party or otherwise, is to secure the prosperity and happiness of the whole people; to unite and strengthen the people in a common bond of brotherhood. This was the noble work the fathers of Confederation marked out for themselves; for this it was that the leaders of the two great parties clasped hands, and agreed to forget differences of race and creed. How faithful they have been to the trust the history of the country since the union demonstrates. We all enjoy the fullest liberty, are equal before the law, and Jack, if Jack be true to himself, is asgood as his master. It may be that the Conservative statesmen who, for the most part, have guided the destinies of Canada since confederation, have erred at times, but they set themselves to carrying out the great work of uniting the provinces by the passing of just laws, by the removal of barriers to union consistent with provincial rights, and by the building of the great trans-continental railway, and to the lasting disgrace of the Liberals it should be remembered that when Sir John was receiving the congratulations of the people of British Columbia, of all Canada, on the completion of the great iron bond of union, they were rejoicing in the victory of disunion over union, of race cries over principles, of the Regina scaffold and its just prey over national interests, in the recent election in Chamby. Herein lies the difference between the two parties. It should not be hard to decide which one is most deserving of the support of those who love their country, and who take a pride in its increasing prominence in the eyes of the world.But though we have expressed a fear that disunion is fast approaching we have faith in the patriotism of the majority of Canadians, and that the guiding principle of the Conservative party, one people and one flag, will prevail.Hugh J. Montgomery, timber ranger, Battleford, who has been instructed to inspect the crops raised from the government seed grain, commenced his labors last Monday. He reports that, as a whole, the crops will be far below the average, but states that while some farmers have good crops, their neighbors, with as good land, have poor crops. Under these circumstances it is hard to say whether the seed grain or the farmer is most to blame.
Of course those who sow on a sandy soil in a dry season like this have been, cannot expect a crop and must be excused; but Mr. Montgomery's experience so far only strengthens us in the conviction that the seed grain was good, and that those who farm with two hands have more to show for their work than those who farm with one, that is provided a hail storm or an earthquake does not intervene.Canada--North West Territories.An Ordinance to amend, and consolidate as amended, the several Ordinances respecting Prairie and Forest Fires.

Passed 18th Dec. 1886.

Enacted by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Territories in Council as follows:1. Any person who kindles or sets on fire a party to kindling or planting fire in any part of the Territories, except for purposes of domestic purposes, or for clearing land in the months of December, January or February, shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, with costs of prosecution, and, in default of payment, be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three months.2. Nothing in this Ordinance shall bar or prevent the owner of private property from recovering damages from any offender against the first and second sections of this Ordinance.3. Proceedings under this Ordinance shall be in a summary manner.4. The Lieutenant-Governor may appoint three or more persons to act as assessors, and to enforce the provisions of this Ordinance, who, together with all magistrates shall have power to call out any male person within five miles of the place of proceeding at once, and help to extinguish any fire, and any person refusing to do so shall be liable to a fine of ten dollars.5. It shall be the duty of all peace-officers to enforce the provisions of any of the enactments of this Ordinance forthwith to arrest the offender, and to bring him before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, to be dealt with according to law.6. To prosecute upon information under this Ordinance, a peace-officer shall be required to file a complaint, and a fine paid or collected, the information shall be required to receive one-half of the said fine.7. Ordinance No. 4 of 1879 and No. 20 of 1885 are hereby repealed.

Small may raise new question to order to keep the American extremists in good humor, but it must be the loss of Sir Michael Hicks Beach to disabuse the Irish of their belief in the omnipotence "Boyotting" as a means for whitening rents to zero. A TRIP DOWN THE SASKATCHEWAN AND OVER LAKE WINNIPEG.

Portage LaPrairie,
July 27th 1886.

We arrived at the metropolis of this "Great Lone Land" on Tuesday 21st inst., about 10 a.m., just eleven days after stepping on board the Marquis at Prince Albert.

We were well pleased with our trip down the great Saskatchewan to Grand Rapids, which we reached on Monday noon, about two and a half days after starting.

The Marquis is a large, commodious and comfortable boat, well kept, with a jolly crew under the command of Capt. Dugal, whom we found a kind and affable officer, and the same may be said of all under his command. Each seemed anxious to perform his duty, and to make all the passengers on board feel happy and contented.

There were twenty passengers on board as far as the Rapids, where three were added to our number by the arrival of the North West on the Wednesday evening following. Among the passengers we noticed the Hon. L. Clarke, Mr. A. Wigmore of London, Ont., and several others from Prince Albert, also Mr. Gordon Clarke of Hudson, Quebec, who has been residing for some time at Victoria, about 300 miles west of Battledore. He made the journey to Battledore in four days in a skiff 12 ft. long, with 400 lbs. of baggage. We found Mr. G. Clarke one of those genial fellows who is always at home wherever night overtakes him.

Nothing unusual took place on our voyage down the Saskatchewan beyond those occurrences that are common on a river steamer. There was a particular feature on board until we reached Grand Rapids and was there transferred to the Northcote to make her sweeter and more wholesome, and we believe had the desired effect.

After leaving our ambitious town and all her beauties behind, nothing of interest took place until we reached the "Old Wives Rapids" about 8 p.m., on Friday when all on board were aroused by the cry "a bear." Every eye was anxious to catch a glimpse of his majestic bearship. To the left on a high and rugged summit Mr. Bruin was leisurely strolling, perhaps taking his morning walk, and not aware of the manhood Marquis and the danger on board. The Captain who is a "dead shot," seized his Winchester, rushed on deck, got a head on his game but missed his mark. On a repetition of the experiment, we judge from the rapid retreat of old Bruin that he must have thought some one was casting shells from the sea shore.

Had we succeeded in getting a live bear, we would have forwarded him by first express to the Times to perform the burial ceremony or hand him over to his "devil" for further orders.

About 9 p.m., we tied up for the night in the middle of Coal Rapids, when all but the watchman went to his berth expecting to have a quiet and peaceful rest, but just as we had fallen into the arms of Morpheus, the whistle blew, the bell rang, the engine howled, the crew clamoured about as if in total darkness, and the Marquis again struck water. From the continual thumping and bumping below, we were forced to rise, and found it just 2 a.m. The old adage "Early to bed, and early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise," we think from our short experience, if we were sailors we could "fill the bill." We felt somewhat chagrined at such uncourteous treatment when the thought struck us that we were on board a steamer, and might expect such early salutations each day while on board.

Saturday proved a clear and beautiful day, with a brisk breeze that made everything seem delightful. The first order of the day was breakfast, and you may rest assured we were ready for the menagerie long before the bell rang forth the joyful sound that all was ready. On this occasion we were treated to beef steak, and at present we are unable to say whether it was prepared in a refrigerator or a furnace. Our grub was usually pork and beans, and sometimes for a change we got beans and pork. We think these delicacies might have been varied by something else for the amount demanded as an equivalent. We reached the Forks that morning about 4 and were delayed for some time by unloading of wood. The scenery here is beautiful, the banks of the river are high and receding and covered with spruce and poplar in abundance. It is here that the "Belonger town site" is to be seen yet unpopulated, and awaiting the advent of Hudson's Bay Railway. What a bonanza! Containing our journey, we entered the united waters of the North and South Saskatchewan, and proceeded to Fort La Corne formerly known as the old Turner settlement, and were again delayed several hours by the loading and unloading of a large quantity of freight consisting of lumber, cattle and furs. We then continued our journey until darkness set in when we again rested for the night with the repetition of the previous night, thumping, bumping, etc.

On Sunday about 8 a.m., we reached Cumberland, and here met Chief Factor Belanger, whom we would judge from appearances is "Monarch of all he surveys." At this place we had the pleasure of seeing the sun dial erected by Sir John Franklin on his first expedition to this country, the time indicated being 8.40 a.m. From the number here, we would judge that all the citizens of Cumberland and we may presume to say the parishioners of the Factor Belanger had assembled on shore to bid the Marquis welcome. Among the large number that had gathered on the arrival of our steamer we noticed Dorion, better known as "Little Car" who is 85 years of age and received the title Little Car from his great strength, being able at one time to portage eight pieces which were equivalent to 720 lbs.

From here we had the company of Mr. Belanger to Grand Rapids, where we felt him perfectly happy and surrounded by all the beauties of nature and other things we would not like to mention showing his extreme bashfulness. Again proceeding on our journey, we reached Dunn Island 12 miles from Cedar Lake about 10 p.m., and again tied up for an evening rest. The mosquitoes at this place put in good work. They appeared to be hungry and to thoroughly understand what they were intended for. They were like grasshoppers in size, legions in number, and tremendous in character. Monday we reached Cedar Lake which although rough, we crossed in safety and in a few hours afterwards loomed in the distance we saw Grand Rapids. This is where it is said the Hudson's Bay Railway will cross the Saskatchewan River.

When we reached here we hoped that the Princess would be in waiting, but we were doomed to disappointment. The point at which we landed is about 5 miles from where the lake meets land and are connected by tramway. These places are known as Grand Rapids west and Grand Rapids east. Here we met Mrs. A. L. Sifton, late of Brandon and Miss Stewart of Montreal, who were on their way to Prince Albert, the great tourist city of the west. On the Wednesday previous, these ladies were dumped from the Princess upon the banks of the lake alone friendless and homeless, we should not say friendless because there was one who not only gave them a home but also in whom they found a friend, we refer to Mr. Angus McLean who is in charge of the Hudson's Bay Post at this place. The kindness that was extended to these ladies by Mr. and Mrs. McLean deserves the highest eulogy, not only of these ladies themselves, but also of their friends and all lovers of the fair sex.

Although we were anxious to make a quick trip, owing to the non arrival of the lake steamer we had to spend three days and a half here running the tramway and pinching in various other ways, to put in the time. Bad connection and over doses of anchorage are very detrimental to this route. We sometimes felt that we were whooping it up when all of a sudden our steel would come to a stand either from weariness, hunger thirst or fear.
